About APICS:

The Association for Supply Chain Management (ASCM), formerly known as APICS, is an internationally recognized certification body and the global leader in supply chain, procurement, and logistics management. It aims to equip professionals with the "gold standard" in education, advanced skills, and global best practices to excel in the job market.

CLTD Overview:

Certified in Logistics Transportation and Distribution (CLTD) is a flagship logistics program within ASCM (APICS). Moving beyond internal facility operations, this certification equips professionals with the exact tools to master outbound logistics, streamline warehouse distribution, and build resilient, cost-effective transportation strategies.
