with Internationally Recognized Certification!

About APICS:

The Association for Supply Chain Management (ASCM), formerly known as APICS, is an internationally recognized certification body and the global leader in supply chain, procurement, and logistics management. It aims to equip professionals with the "gold standard" in education, advanced skills, and global best practices to excel in the job market.

CSCP Overview:

Certified supply chain Professional (CSCP) is a premier strategic program within ASCM (APICS). Rather than focusing strictly on inside-the-four-walls manufacturing, this certification empowers professionals to lead end-to-end supply chain integration, manage global supplier and customer relationships, and apply best practices to build resilient, seamlessly connected value chains."
